

Helpful tips from Breastfeeding Mums

Breastfeeding at a Baby Brasserie or Children's Centre session can help you feel more confident. The clothes you wear can help you to breastfeed discreetly, if this is important to you. Layers, muslins and scarves are useful and some mothers even use slings to feed their babies in. Look for the 'Breastfeeding Welcome' signs.

You might feel nervous the first time you breastfeed in public. Try being with friends or family so they can support you. Some mothers find that 'practising' in front of a mirror at home reassures them that very little can be seen. Cafes with sofas help you to snuggle down and feed discreetly. It is not as taboo as you think it is!

It gets a lot easier to feed quickly after the first few weeks. Being aware of your baby's feeding cues can help you to start to feed your baby before they cry, meaning that less people will notice what you are doing.

Be aware of your rights - you cannot be asked to leave. Be proud of the wonderful start to life you are giving your baby by breastfeeding.

Breastfeeding your baby is something to be proud of and you are protected within law to breastfeed in a public place. If you would like extra reassurance the following establishments have been awarded the 'Breastfeeding Welcome Award' from Bedford Borough Council and Central Bedfordshire Council. These establishments will display the sticker below.
